

Synthesis Stems

week one

Use the following sentence stem examples when introducing analysis and/or commentary regarding critical evidence selected for academic discussions. What should result are three or more sentences outlining your observations in specific detail. It is always necessary to show how your ideas are correct and how they function.

1.
An average reader should understand why _____ is true, because _____.
2.
What society could learn from this theory / writing / practice is _____.
3.
After reading _____ one can assume _____. This is due to _____.
4.
Taking this information into consideration, an individual can clearly understand _____.
5.
The quoted example from _____ underscores the societal need for change due to _____.
6.
Such statements from critics prove that _____.
7.
Ultimately, society should be aware that _____.
8.
What _____ is proposing is that _____ in order for _____.
9.
In past centuries it was once thought _____, however, with the newly provided information, in contemporary times the general notion is _____.
10.
His/her unique position on the subject shifts the discussion towards _____.