

Animated GIFs

Taking one of the existing formats discussed in class, create an animate GIF to suit the given requirements. Insert the image into a Dreamweaver document maintaining same procedures shown throughout this term, and utilizing a table-within-a-table format.

King Voodoo, a Louisiana-based coffee company, is building a new web-campaign to be released before February, 2008. They are now targeting strategic hot spots on the web, drumming up interest to help promote a new brand of chicory coffee.

Winners in a web-based raffle will be flown to New Orleans to experience Mardi Gras first-hand. A portion of the funds generated will be contributed to noteworthy charities dealing with hurricane relief efforts throughout the delta regions. On their promotional page, under development currently, they want an animated banner to appear across the top margin of the screen.

elements required:

- at least three frames of information
 1. Stir in the Crazy
 2. Celebrate with King Voodoo
 3. logo appears at the end of the sequence with the phrase: Get Spooked!
- table-within-table strategy
- working color strategy with background elements and existing animation

The final size of the Photoshop image should be 728 pixels wide X 90 pixels tall.

Follow the table-within-a-table strategy shown to you in the class demo.
